The Beverly Jewell Sutton Psychiatry Education Endowment

The Beverly Jewell Sutton Endowment was established in 2004 to recognize Dr. Sutton's significant and distinguished career in psychiatry and psychiatric education. She has trained countless physicians in adult, child and adolescent psychiatry, but has seen funding for this training decline.

The demand for mental health care in Central Texas and throughout the country is growing dramatically, but it is estimated that only 20% of children and adolescents in need of treatment receive it. The pain of these mental health issues persists into adulthood and can wreak havoc on lives. More and better-trained mental health professionals are needed to meet the increasing burden of care.

The Sutton Endowment strengthens the Austin Medical Residency Program in psychiatry by providing funds for training equipment, awards for extra effort in research, travel for medical residents to state and national meetings, recognition for academic and clinical exemplary function, and other incentives that help pave the road to excellence.

Join us in responding to this need.
